COLORADO SPRINGS (April 8, 2019) -- On the heels of a record-breaking year, the gifted singer/ventriloquist Darci Lynne announces her new fall tour, sharing her passion for performance and bringing her captivating show, "Fresh Out of the Box," to fans across America. Backed by a live band, Lynne's "Fresh out of the Box" tour will stop at Pikes Peak Center for the Performing Arts on Sunday, October 6, 2019.

Winner of the 2017 season of NBC's "America's Got Talent," Lynne kicked off 2019 with some of the most memorable AGT contestants from 184 countries, becoming the runner-up out of the 50 top competitors on the first-ever "America's Got Talent: Champions." The exuberant performer was featured in Forbes magazine who said of the talent, "For someone who has already made a pretty amazing dream come true at a very early age, the possibilities are endless."

Winning "America's Got Talent" at just 12 years old by the most votes for a final performance in the history of the show, Lynne impressed audiences across the country with her sweetheart disposition and an undeniable, show-stopping talent beyond her years. She is always accompanied by her musical friends including a diva-esque rabbit Petunia, a shy and soulful mouse Oscar, and a sarcastic old woman Edna. Singing through her friends helped the young entertainer find a voice inside she didn't know she had and helped her overcome a lifelong struggle with shyness. An Oklahoma native, Lynne began participating in talent-based pageants at a young age and picked up ventriloquism shortly after. Lynne continued tackling talent shows, eventually making it to the biggest talent show on television, NBC's "America's Got Talent." Following her big win, Lynne has been featured on NBC's "Little Big Shots," Food Network's "Kids Baking Championship," "Ellen" and "TODAY." Lynne and her friends are continually on the road bringing smiles to audiences across the country.
