will also continue donating 100 percent of the net proceeds from the sale of their LLS branded Destroyers shirt to the organization.

Thorogood and the band flip the switch nightly, delivering what The Toledo Blade calls a “gut-bustin’, guitar-wailin’, face-meltin’, take-no-prisoners, good old-fashioned lunch bucket rock-and-roll show”.

The Sacramento Bee says, “The Destroyers remain as they have been for years – Jeff Simon on percussion, Bill Blough on bass, Jim Suhler on guitar, and Buddy Leach on saxophone. They are without a doubt one of the best touring bands in blues-rock history.”

And, as Rolling Stone once raved, “George Thorogood and The Destroyers play rock & roll hot enough to melt the polar icecaps and flood the world’s major population centers.”
