The Mormon Chorale presents Lamb of God Saturday, March 16, 2019

Going on sale today at 8 p.m. MT is Lamb of God presented by the Mormon Chorale that will visit Pikes Peak Center on Saturday, March 16 for two shows at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Lamb of God is a musical portrayal of the final days of the life of Jesus Christ, from the foreshadowing raising of Lazarus, to the devastating arrest and crucifixion of Jesus, and finally to His glorious resurrection. Composed and written by Rob Gardner, the story is told through the ever-relatable perspective of those who loved and walked with Him: Peter, John, Thomas, Mary and Martha of Bethany, Mary Magdalene and His Mother Mary.

Lamb of God offers a new and unique take on the Passion story in that it's told entirely through music. The music serves to heighten the innate emotion of the narrative and carries a very personal meaning to everyone who experiences it. The Gospels of the New Testament were the sole source material in the composition of "Lamb of God".

Tickets are $10 plus applicable fees and will go on sale today, Monday, February 4, at 8 p.m. MT. They can be purchased at PikesPeakCenter.com or BroadmoorWorldArena.com or via phone at (719) 520-SHOW. Tickets will be available at the Pikes Peak Center and The Broadmoor World Arena box offices starting on Tuesday, February 5 at 10 a.m.

This year alone, more than 4,000 performers across the world have participated in locally-produced performances of Lamb of God in places as far-reaching as the Netherlands, Romania and Buenos Aires. These performances played for a total audience of well over 50,000 people from all faiths.
