About the Artists

Dylan Carmichael

The 25-year-old country artist, Dylan Carmichael, grew up in a small town of Burgin, Kentucky before moving to Nashville where he earned a publishing deal at the age of 18. From a boy, Carmichael was destined for the musical life with family ties to John Michael and Eddie Montgomery (who both had massive chart successes). Carmichael draws on his family and home life to power his music and keep him true to his roots.

Teddy Robb

Teddy Robb, born in Akron, Ohio, grew up loving the outdoors. His passion for snowboarding landed him in Vail, Colorado, where he showcased his love for music while supporting his love of the mountains. Teddy finally made the leap to Nashville where he co-wrote his debut song “Lead Me On” with Ryan Beaver, Matt McGinn, and Aaron Eshuis.

Smithfield

Trey Smith and Jennifer Field make up the dynamic duo better known as SmithField. Growing up together in Texas, these childhood friends took the stage by storm with their stunning harmonies and undeniable chemistry. These two have opened for major acts such as; Kane Brown, Dustin Lynch, Brothers Osborn and many more. SmithField is proving to be a hot new up and coming duo that is ready to take on the country music world head-on.

Drew Baldrige

Growing up in Patoka, Illinois, Drew Baldrige always knew what he wanted to be; a country musician. With that dream in mind, Baldrige moved to Nashville at 19 where he poured his heart, soul, and personality into his first album. With his debut single “Dance With Y,” Baldrige quickly saw his childhood dreams coming true.
